FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

BILLINGS – Terry Corey, a longtime teacher, coach, and athletic director, and Nathan Bailey, an All-American golfer, will be inducted into Rocky Mountain College Clara Klindt Hall of Fame September 7, 2013.

“We’re really excited to honor two gentlemen who have had a large role in athletics at Rocky Mountain College,” said Robert Beers, RMC athletic director.

Corey and Bailey will be celebrated at the annual hall of fame banquet in the Great Room of Prescott Hall, Sept. 7, and will be recognized during halftime of the Battlin’ Bears game with Dickinson State. The game begins at 1 p.m.; the banquet at 5:30 p.m.

Corey, who came to RMC after a 30-year career as a high school teacher, coach, and activities director, was recognized for his passion for sports and the success of student-athletes. During his nine years as RMC’s athletic director, Corey grew the department with the addition of cross country teams and junior varsity basketball teams. His eye for finding mentoring coaching talent is evident in the number of current coaches he hired.

Bailey helped RMC golf program become recognized nationally. A transfer student from the University of Idaho, Bailey was the first RMC golfer to be named a First Team All-American. He was Senior Athlete of the Year in 2004. After graduation, Bailey won the Montana State Amateur Golf Championship three consecutive years, 2010, 2011, and 2012. Between his work and family, he still finds time to work with RMC golfers.
